HOME GOA

The double height living room houses an eclectic mix of furniture and seating. Sliding windows connect the living room to the verandah and the courtyard. Bespoke cement tiles juxtapose the bottle green polished cement floors, dotted with generous seaters from Gulmohar Lane, while large glass pendant lights from an antique collector in Delhi hang overhead

CLOCKWISE, FROM TOP Custom made cement tiles inspired by exuberant textile patterns decorate the floor of the studio. An inbuilt mint green bookshelf near the upholstered seater from Gulmohar Lane is dotted with the homeowner's personal collectibles from their travels; The detailed stained glass and timber doors are an ode to traditional Goan architectural elements. Not only does the fenestration provide a measure of privacy to the studio but also allows in abundant natural light; Another inbuilt aspect is the bar in the main social space finished in vibrant bottle green and coral polished cement, below the reclaimed antique staircase railing that has been refurbished in canary yellow
