

The Queen's Den

Parineeti Chopra's home emits a modern chic vibe with its exposed brick wall and splash of colours - it truly exudes a 21st century English style

IMPRESSIONS: BENOY SEBASTIAN | IMAGES: INDRAJEET SATHE

↑ Living room

The living room emits a modern chic vibe with its exposed white brick walls, deep blue sofa with a splash of pop added by the red side table reflecting in the painting.

← The Balcony

The seating along with the swing is a comfortable bench with quirky pillows amalgamating with the zen atmosphere. In all, the drastic contrast in all the elements of the spaces come together in a beautiful way to make an elegant vibrant space to enjoy.

↑ Entertainment Room

The living and the den are separated by a door that celebrates the herringbone pattern achieved with veneer and bison board, the den houses a lavish white library cum TV unit with few niches hand-painted in poppy colours, and the same choice of colours reflecting in the knobs.

Dining Area →

The dining reflects a chic swag with the black and white herring bone pattern in the floor with sea green and black lime slate stone, the dining chairs in varying colourful upholstery. The telephone installation on the wall above console in the living all give a quirky edge to the home.

↑ Master Bedroom

The master bedroom with its veneer paneling on walls meet the ceiling in an arch, the pure white in the ceiling is almost reflected in the white bed and side tables with pops of colour in the soft furnishings and the hand-painted drawer fronts. The room reflects a modern classy vibe with little pops of fun elements reflecting the personality of the client almost flawlessly.

Balcony →

The vertical garden and the pebbled stone pathway in the balcony make way for a zen comfortable outdoor space to be around. The swing in the outdoors makes for a cozy spot to enjoy the blending of elements and the outdoor merging with the indoor.

